

ETPrime

LG Electronics shares rally 9% as lock-in expiry frees up 44 crore shares: Here's how stock performed since IPO

By Debaroti Adhikary, ETMarkets.com • Last Updated: Apr 15, 2026, 11:52:00 AM IST

Preferred on G

FOLLOW US

SHARE

FONT SIZE

SAVE

Synopsis

LG Electronics India shares are in focus as a six-month lock-in period ends today, freeing over 44 crore shares for trade. The stock, which listed at a premium in October 2024, has seen volatility since its debut. Analysts maintain a positive outlook, citing market leadership and growth plans.

ET AI | Briefing

Listen to this article in summarized format

Listen

LG Electronics India shares are under scrutiny today. A six-month lock-in period expires, releasing over 44 crore shares for trading.

The shares of LG Electronics India rallied nearly 9% on Wednesday as the six-month shareholder lock-in period for the stock comes to an end today, freeing up more than 44 crore shares for trade, following its strong listing in October last year.

LG Electronics India's 441 million shares, or 65% of its total outstanding shares, will become eligible for trade once the lock-in period expires on April

